Haynsworth Would Agree To Trusteeship If Confirmed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Judge Clement F. Haynsworth says he would be willing to put his financial holdings under a trusteeship to "avoid any further suggestion of conflict of interest" if the Senate approves his appointment to the Supreme Court.

This word from the White House Monday came as both supporters and critics of the nomination worked to ready reports on Haynsworth's fitness to sit on the high court.

Haynsworth's leading opponent, Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., had been going through a stack of financial records. He said a preliminary look had led him to actively fight the nomination.

On the other side, nomination backers had prepared their defense of Haynsworth's civil rights decisions while a judge on the 4th U.S. Court of Appeals.

In making the trust announcement, the White House said the idea came from the wealthy South Carolina jurist himself and not from President Nixon who is fighting to win Senate confirmation of the nomination.

Haynsworth, contacted in South Carolina, confirmed he had made the suggestion to the administration last week. He said he had not thought out how the trust would work.

"But I'm agreeable to any agreement that would avoid any further suggestion of conflict of interest," he said.

Haynsworth has been attacked for ruling on cases involving firms in which he had financial connections.

In the past some executive appointees have established trusteeships while they have been in office, turning management of their financial affairs over to a trustee to avoid conflict of interest situations.

Both sides had hoped to get the reports out in time for Wednesday's meeting of the Judiciary Committee. The committee delayed action last week and there was mixed opinion whether it will vote on the nomination this time.

Barbara Shutt Unconscious; Hospitalized

Found In Cell After Conviction In Murder Case

CINCINNATI (AP) — Barbara Shutt, convicted of first degree murder Monday night, was found unconscious at the Hamilton County Jail today where she was lodged and was taken to General Hospital.

Officials at the jail said that the young woman was still alive when taken from the jail at 9:15 a.m. They said they tried to wake her but could not.

A spokesman for the hospital said she was being treated in the intensive care unit for an "overdose of an unspecified nature and was in critical condition."

The 24-year-old parttime school teacher was convicted by a Hamilton County Common Pleas Court jury in the death of her foster mother, Dr. Jane Shutt, on May 25. The seven-woman, five-man jury deliberated about five hours before reaching its decision.

Miss Shutt seemed emotionless when the verdict was read and was silent as the officials escorted her to the jail on the top floor of the courthouse.

In contrast to Miss Shutt, her foster father, Charles Shutt, 75, was shaken and bowed in prayer with a clergyman in the jury room. He simply replied, "Yes," when asked if he were upset.

Shutt said that he did not talk with Barbara after the verdict was announced and when asked if he were surprised about her being convicted, Shutt said, "We didn't discuss it, so I don't know."

Red Prof Applauded By Students

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Students applauded the first lecture by a miniskirted young Communist assistant professor Monday, then asked other faculty members to quit teaching until University of California regents give academic credit for her course.

Shapely Angela Davis, 25, drew an overflow crowd of 1,900 students to the university's Royce Hall and about 100 were turned away for lack of room.

"I'd like to lecture," she said. "I don't think we ought to allow the regents to interfere."

The audience gave her a standing ovation after her talk on black literature and adopted resolutions demanding a faculty classroom boycott until the young Negro is granted full reinstatement.

Miss Davis was fired by the regents last month because she has said she is a member of a Communist club. A committee of the academic senate demanded that she be permitted to teach. The regents ruled Friday that she can teach, but not for credit, until they hear an appeal from their original decision.

Meanwhile Miss Davis continues to receive her $9,384 annual salary.

Viet Reds May Give U.S. Families POW Information

Wheeler Sees No Viet Changes

SAIGON (AP) — The chairman of the U.S. Joint Chiefs of Staff indicated today that he doesn't share Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott's expectation of major military developments in Vietnam soon.

The Pennsylvania senator said Monday there may be a breakthrough in the war in the next 60 to 90 days. He said the breakthrough could occur in either the diplomatic or military area but he "would shade it a little toward the military."

Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, ending a four-day visit to Vietnam, was asked at a news conference if any major military developments can be expected in the next 60 days.

"Well, you'd have to ask Gen. Giap that question," he replied. "I'm not in a position to answer it." He referred to Gen. Vo Nguyen Giap, North Vietnam's defense minister.

Wheeler also indicated there had been no major shift in American battlefield tactics.

Asked whether the recent low level of enemy activity had resulted in a scaling down of U.S. offensive operations and a shift toward a defensive posture, he replied that Gen. Creighton W. Abrams, the commander of American forces in Vietnam, is

"following the policy that he was following when I was here in July."

Wheeler said this is not so much a "defensive" policy as a "pre-emptive, protective course of action in line with the change in the enemy's tactics which have been quite marked."

U.S. military experts say this "pre-emptive" policy of wide-spread patrolling by small units (Continued on Page 15)

Private Appeals Are Approved By Pentagon

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon has informed about 3,000 wives and parents of captured U.S. servicemen that North Vietnam may respond to private appeals for information about POWs, defense officials report.

Spokesmen said the armed services passed the word last week in an effort to keep American families abreast of developments involving prisoners or missing men presumed alive in Vietnam.

North Vietnam about the same time began accusing the United States of trying to whip up emotions among the relatives of POWs as a means of pressuring communist delegates at the Paris peace talks.

Defense officials say this was not their motive. The Pentagon, they say, was merely carrying out its responsibility to the families of POWs or missing men.

An officer acknowledged that the Pentagon was walking a fine line and leaving itself open to propaganda charges.

"But we were just informing people of Hanoi's willingness to answer letters from relatives writing on their own," he said.

As the Pentagon understands it, the North Vietnamese in Paris will accept private inquiries and receive relatives, pass the questions onto Hanoi and later forward any responses to the families.

The Pentagon says it knows of no responses received by any of the several wives who first called upon the North Vietnamese delegation in Paris about three weeks ago.

According to some accounts, North Vietnam has asked wives to provide such information about captured servicemen as (Continued on Page 2)

Bloodmobile Due Thursday

Officials of the Pickaway County Red Cross Blood Program have issued a reminder that the Bloodmobile will be visiting Circleville on Thursday, October 9. The visit will be held from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the Community United Methodist Church.

Jack Mader, local Blood Program chairman, said that although the 151 pints collected at last month's visit assured the county of total blood benefits for the remainder of 1969, there is still a shortage of 38 pints locally. He also stated that there has recently been a severe shortage of all types of blood at the Columbus regional blood center.

It has been determined that if 163 pints of blood are collected at Thursday's visit Pickaway County will have filled 100 per cent of its quota for the first time in several months and area donors will have contributed significantly to alleviating the blood shortage.

Persons between 60 and 65 are reminded that they may donate blood any time they wish, and those age 66 or over may donate with the permission of their physician.

Seek To Extradite Hoss; Woman, Child Still Missing

WATERLOO, Iowa (AP) — Two Pennsylvania detectives were expected to begin extradition proceedings here today against Stanley B. Hoss Jr., a convicted rapist charged with killing a policeman and kidnapping three persons, including a mother and her 2-year-old daughter.

Meanwhile, officials in northern Ohio and other states are continuing a concentrated search for Linda Mae Peugeot, 21, and her daughter, Lori Mae.

Officials say they have little hope that the woman and child Hoss is accused of kidnapping are alive. But police in both states are checking every clue along the route the 26-year-old escaped convict is believed to have taken in his flight from Pennsylvania. He was arrested Saturday.

"Every hotel, motel and cafe in the area is being checked out," said Charles G. Gusek, special agent in charge of the Cleveland FBI office.

"Agents are searching the whole state for possible clues," he added.

Mrs. Peugeot and her daughter are believed to have been kidnapped from a shopping center near Cumberland, Md., Sept. 22.

Hoss, a high school dropout with the words "Born to Lose" tattooed on his left arm, was arrested after a scuffle with nine policemen across the street from the Waterloo police station.

He is charged with the murder of Joseph Zannella, 25, a Verona, Pa., policeman who died of four bullet wounds to the chest Sept. 19. Zannella was shot, officials say, while the parolman was attempting to arrest Hoss eight days after he escaped from the Allegheny County Workhouse where he was awaiting sentencing for the rape of a 17-year-old girl.

Hoss also faces charges in the kidnapping of Karen Maltott, 20, of Arnold, Pa., Sept. 22. She was released several hours after Hoss forced her to drive to Wheeling, W.Va., in her car, police say.

Under Iowa state law, Gov. Robert D. Ray can turn Hoss over to Pennsylvania authorities after a hearing. One official said the process could take as little as one day.

The decision came after Kurfess learned some committees scheduled Friday afternoon and Saturday morning sessions to coincide with Ohio State University football games.

Bees Removed From Lofty Perch

Robbing a bee tree was a pleasant fall pastime in years gone by, but not for Lt. Glen Jones of the Circleville Fire Department today.

A swarm of bees attacked itself to the eaves of the Masonic Temple on S. Court St. last June. Bees normally seek a cavity in a tree or building to build a hive, finding no opening this particular hive made its home on the exterior.

Trustees of the local Masonic lodge feared the sounds of the bees to swarm during a peak crowd period. They also feared the weight of the honey might cause the hive to fall from its perch.

They contacted veteran bee keeper, E. H. Althaus of Cedar Hill for advice and assistance. He suggested killing the bees with deadly cyanide gas and then removing the hive.

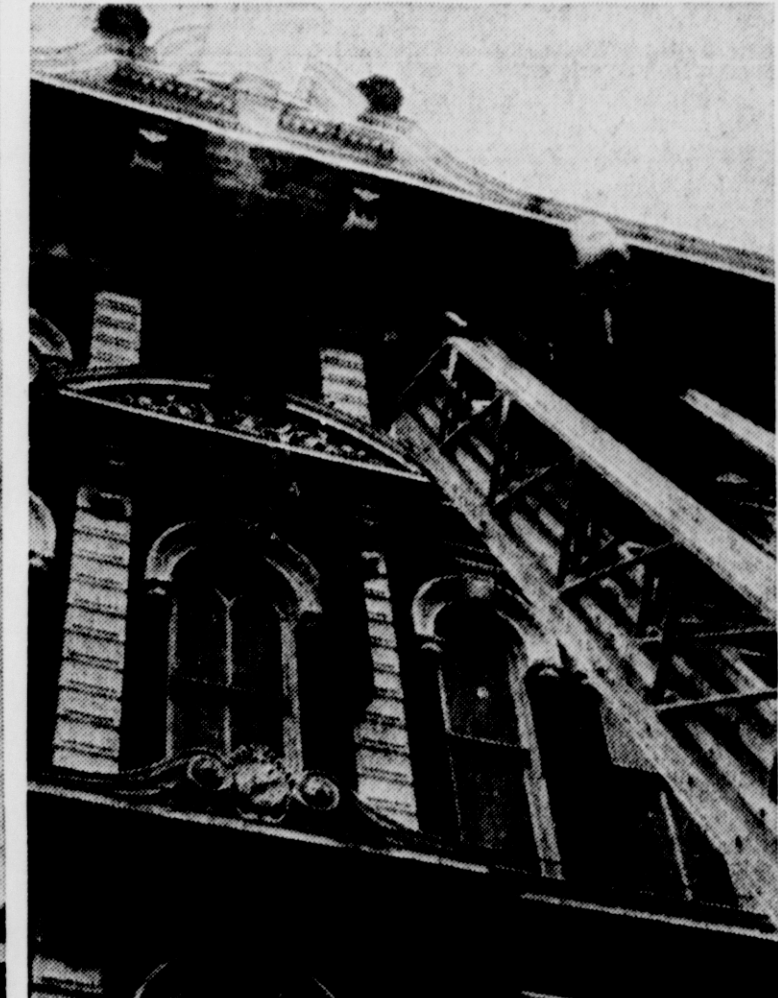

ALTHAUS has been a bee keeper for nearly 40 years and at the present has 150 hives. He noted he was not interested in preserving the bees or the honey in the hive at the Masonic Temple, but was offering his assistance as a favor to Judge William Ammer, a (Continued on Page 2)

Mao, Like Teddy, Speaks Softly With Big Stick

By JOHN RODERICK
Associated Press Writer
TOKYO (AP) — Red China's Mao Tse-tung appears in recent weeks to be following Theodore Roosevelt's advice to "speak softly and carry a big stick."

One aspect of the "big stick" is the hydrogen bomb: China detonated its third on Sept. 29. The first Chinese underground nuclear explosion was detonated three days earlier.

Mao also is making military preparations for repelling an attack, particularly a nuclear one, and he has assumed command of the armed forces with his heir-designate and defense minister, Lin Biao, to give his movement greater impetus.

While it can hardly conceal these major steps, Peking has chosen to wrap them in comparatively soft words. Although it would have provided an ideal platform, Mao chose not to announce the nuclear test blast during the 20th anniversary celebrations Oct. 1. He waited until Oct. 4 instead.

Similarly, the major anniversary speeches of Premier Chou En-lai and Lin Biao and the anniversary editorial of the Peking People's Daily, Red Flag and the Liberation Army Daily were notable less for their belligerence than for their insistence that China plan no foreign adventures.

The Russians were identified only as "social-imperialists" and the attacks on them were comparatively mild.

The reason for China's new posture—a contrast to that during the Cultural Revolution—can be guessed: Mao takes seriously Moscow's reported threat to destroy Chinese nuclear installations should warfare break out over their disputed borders.

To have brandished the new nuclear tests in Moscow's face could conceivably have unfavorably affected the border talks which Mao now seems anxious to hold with the Russians.

The new Chinese stance already is producing results. Chinese and Russian troops are reported to have withdrawn a safe distance from the borders. Besides border talks, conversations on trade are said to be in the wind.

In its delayed announcement of the nuclear tests, Peking emphasized only slightly the negative—"another heavy blow at the nuclear monopoly of U.S. imperialism and social-imperialism"—and accented the positive, calling them "a great encouragement" to the Vietnamese, the Laotians and the Arabs.

It devoted 600 words to the announcement, a contrast to the exultant 1,500-word communiqué which announced the Dec. 27, 1968, H-bomb test. That document pictured the Russians as plunging downhill, denounced the Kremlin leaders as "the Soviet revisionist renegade clique," and said the bomb was a blow at the policy of "nuclear threat and blackmail" of Moscow and Washington.

A spokesman said the Pentagon has not discouraged relatives from providing such information even though the men themselves are obliged under long-standing policy to give only their name, rank and serial number.

The Pentagon has given the relatives of the more than 400 captured and more than 900 missing men two addresses to which they may direct inquiries. One address, for questions involving men believed to be in North Vietnam, is that of the Hanoi delegation in Paris.

The other address, for questions about those men missing or believed held in South Vietnam, is for the Viet Cong delegation.

trustee of the lodge.

Lt. Jones volunteered to perform the task. Shortly after 7 a.m. today, the big ladder truck of the Fire Department was wheeled onto Court St. and jockeyed into position at the Masonic Temple.

Firemen Jones and Ronald Sowers extended the ladder 67 feet to the point where the hive was located. The lieutenant donned hip boots, raincoat and a gas mask.

He took a can of cyanide gas and a large pasteboard box up the ladder. Dumping the contents of the gas can in the box, he held it over the hive.

Not all the bees were killed by the gas, and Jones was stung a number of times, but he stuck with his task until the hive was scraped into the box.

Althaus declared it a job well done, and promised Jones a jar of honey in payment for his performance. The lieutenant was more intent on removing a bee from his car.

THE promise of honey did not seem to appeal to him.

This may not be the end of the bees in downtown Roundtown. Max Noggle, clerk in the Sherwin Williams Paint Store in the first floor of the building, said that Monday afternoon a swarm left the hive and found an opening in the fire hydrant across the street.

Ex-Provost Marshal Talks To Solons On Army Graft

WASHINGTON (AP) — Maj. Gen. Carl C. Turner testified today the police chiefs of Chicago and Kansas City knew the more than 500 confiscated weapons turned over to him were for his personal use and not the Army.

Witnesses had told the Senate investigations subcommittee that the former provost marshal general of the Army had signed a receipt saying the guns were for Army training. They said Turner sold some of the guns.

The retired general, saying he had lost a" his gun records, hit the witness table with karatelike chops of his hand as he testified.

"Those weapons were not for the use of the Army. They were going to destroy them and they gave them to me personally."

Turner, 56, was confronted with Chicago police Lt. Paul Duellman who testified the general signed a receipt in his presence on four occasions stating the 397 weapons he got were to be used for Army training and to be destroyed when no longer of use to the military.

Turner said he had been assured by Chicago Police Superintendent James Conlisk he could have the guns with no strings attached.

"I do not recall any statement of that type being made in my presence—no, sir," Duellman testified.

Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., acting chairman of the subcommittee, ordered that Conlisk be requested to appear and clear up the matter.

The hearing room was full and dozens of persons stood in the rear of the room as Turner said he cannot account for all the weapons he received from the two police departments and from Fort Worth, Tex. because his record book could not be found.

Witnesses last week accused Turner of a coverup for allegedly blocking investigation into the affairs of Sergeant Major of the Army William O. Woodbridge.

The subcommittee has heard allegations Woodbridge was leader of a clique of sergeants who systematically looted the funds, equipment, food and liquor of the noncommissioned officers clubs they ran in Germany, South Vietnam and the United States.

In 1967—the year he allegedly blocked the Woodbridge investigation in the Army's Criminal Investigations Division—Turner was presented with the Enforcement Award by the Association of Federal Investigators. He also got a special award for merit from the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

Col. James C. Shultz, Turner's executive officer in 1967, testified Friday that when he complained to the general that charges against Woodbridge were serious and should be followed up, Turner ordered him out of his office.

"He told me Sgt. Maj. Woodbridge was just a very simple fellow and people took advantage of him frequently," Shultz said after reciting a list of accusations against Woodbridge that included a role in multi-million dollar thefts and conspiracy to manipulate U.S. and South Vietnamese currency.

Hopes For 'Ike Dollar' Fade Over Issue Of Silver Use

WASHINGTON (AP) — Plan to unveil a new Eisenhower dollar coin on the late president's birthday next week appear on the shelf, the victim of a House fight over silver content and procedures.

The bill to create the new coin fell about 30 votes shy of the two-thirds majority it needed Monday for hurry-up passage.

More Republicans than Democrats voted against the bill after GOP Rep. H. R. Gross of Iowa charged "you would be doing the memory of President Eisenhower no favor to mint a dollar made perhaps of scrap metal."

The bill would authorize minting of a new copper and nickel clad dollar coin honoring Eisenhower. It also would let the Treasury Department remove silver from the Kennedy half dollars by 1971—the coins now are 40 per cent silver.

President Nixon had urged enactment by next Tuesday, Dwight D. Eisenhower's 79th birthday.

The House Banking Committee approved the bill last Friday under procedures criticized by opponents who said they hardly had time to advance their idea to put silver in the dollar coin. The measure went to the House floor under procedures requiring a two-thirds margin for passage, no amendments and limited debate.

The bill got a 205-148 majority on the final vote, short of the two-thirds necessary. There were 86 Republicans and 62 Democrats in opposition.

Banking Committee Chairman Wright Patman, D-Tex., said he now will seek regular clearance

Gen. Walker Dies At 82

WASHINGTON (AP) — Maj. Gen. Fred Lingood Walker, who commanded the 36th Infantry Division in North Africa and Italy during World War II, died of cancer Monday at Walter Reed Army Hospital. He was 82.

His book "From Texas to Rome," his personal journal as commander of the division, has just been published.

Born in Fairfield County, Ohio, Walker was commissioned in 1911 and served in the Philippines, in the punitive expedition into Mexico in 1916 and 1917, in World War I in France. He held a degree in engineering from Ohio State University.

Walker's decorations included the Distinguished Service Cross with oak leaf cluster — the Army's second highest combat award — the Distinguished Service Medal, the Silver Star and the Purple Heart with oak leaf cluster.

248 Are Killed On Ohio Roads

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Department of Highway Safety issued a report today noting that 248 persons had been killed in traffic accidents in the state during August — second highest monthly toll of the year.

Highway Safety Director Warren C. Nelson reported the total boosted fatalities to 1,732 for the first eight months of the year, or 204 more than the 1,527 killed in the same period last year.

While August highway deaths held 22 below the high of 270 last May, the total ran 11 ahead of the 237 recorded this July.

Nelson said preliminary figures indicate that September fatalities may top those for the same month last year.

A Japanese Example

Whatever the new fall term may hold for college campuses, one point should be kept in mind. Campus disruptions such as those North America has experienced in recent years are not unique to this part of the world. Hard though it may be to believe, some countries have been having a worse time of it than this one.

Japan's campuses have become so chaotic, the Japanese parliament has been forced to pass a law extending government control over campuses. The respect of the Japanese for the independence of their campuses is strong, so the new law was particularly difficult for the Japanese people to accept.

But it came only after more than 100 Japanese universities had been disrupted, many for prolonged periods.

The new law gives primary responsibility for settling a campus dispute to the university president, and permits him to close down the institution temporarily if the dispute extends longer than six months.

If it continues nine months, the government steps in and may close the university. The education minister is empowered to dissolve the institution under extreme circumstances.

Before that minority of students in the new term who might be thinking of renewed disruptions do their thing, they might ponder the Japanese experience. If campus destruction is what they seek, the Japanese have provided an example to follow.

But if academic freedom really is an objective, they need something better than nihilism to create it.

High Accident Rates

Researchers for the Automotive Safety Foundation have found that the periods between 2 p.m. and 4 p.m. and midnight and 4 a.m. had a percentage of automobile accidents greater than the traffic flow.

In the daytime period, this may result from fatigue and the "heterogenous trip purposes of drivers," according to the study. The nocturnal increase in accidents probably "reflects the condition of drivers in early morning hours," it said.

Whether shifting daytime drivers to the night trick, and vice versa, would improve their performance, the study did not attempt to predict.

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — From his office near Philadelphia, Albert Sindlinger listens by telephone to the sound of America's confidence in the future, particularly as it concerns the economy, and he finds it waning.

For most of the 1960s the sound was of earners, spenders, eager buyers. Now he detects worry about jobs, about the stock market, about the large size of personal debts and the relatively small amounts in the bank.

Sindlinger, a former associate of George Gallup, is a professional surveyor of the marketplace, especially noted for his accurate forecasts of automobile sales. Corporations buy his studies, for they know that today's confidence foretells tomorrow's sales.

Every day for the past 13 years Sindlinger's telephone interviewers have rung the phones of hundreds of Americans—all locales, all walks of life, male and female—and queried them on their plans.

Throughout the sixties, Americans generally felt they would be earning more money six months in the future, that their jobs would be secure, that business in their areas would be good and that their financial situation was satisfactory.

Sindlinger often listened to the interviews, for they are conducted in one room at his headquarters in Norwood, Pa. He could measure the optimism or worry in the voices, detect emotions, adjudge the nature of fears.

His method, he claims, has been uncanonically accurate in detecting the nation's mood. One night in 1968, for example, his interviews took a decided negative turn. Something obviously had unnerved Americans.

Lyndon Johnson, it seems, had just televised his State of the Union Message. He had looked old, sick and worried. Subsequent questions proved, Sindlinger claims, that this poor appearance worried Americans about the future.

The present drop in confidence, he has found, "is the first such radical drop among all groups since 1957." And if past patterns, hold, this drop foretells a sharp downturn of the economy.

People worried about jobs begin to cut spending. They delay buying cars and they switch to cheaper cuts of meat. They adopt a recession psychology, the opposite of an inflation psychology.

During inflation people buy "now" to avoid higher prices in the future. As the recession psychology develops they save now because they might not have the money or a job tomorrow.

Should the confidence index continue to decline for another month, Sindlinger believes, the nation almost inevitably will find itself in a recession.

"For the first time in eight years I find businessmen worried," he says.

The turn in confidence began in early May. At that time the index showed signs of deteriorating, but it plunged beginning about the Fourth of July weekend. After leveling off in August, it began declining again.

One of the big reasons for the drop was found to be that more households anticipated lower income in the coming six months. Further examination showed that it was stock owners mainly who anticipated a downturn in their fortunes.

Sindlinger calls these the MPOs, or managers-proprietors-officials. They are the big stock owners, and they were expecting the worst. It came. Just two weeks later the market averages plunged for two whole months.

The more recent decline in consumer confidence, however, seems to be coming mostly from blue collar families. Stock owners remain depressed and this hurts the confidence measures. Now blue collar workers are reinforcing the pattern.

The biggest economic fear that a blue collar worker has is being laid off. He seldom worries about changes in retail sales and gross national product. But when he hears of production turndowns he fears for his job.

A man fearful of his future is not a spender. And because he doesn't spend for an automobile, the car makers must lower their production. Lower schedules mean fewer jobs—and so the steam escapes from the economic engine.

Sindlinger, who is not an economist but who believes his measurements of mass psychology tell him an awful lot about the economy, says it is time for the Nixon administration to re-examine its anti-inflation policy. It might be time to ease up, he says.

Laff-A-Day

"I just want to be able to remember my wedding anniversary."

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

CAL COOLIDGE, one of the most underrated wits in political annals, one day was called upon for the usual bicennial chore of scratching out the first shovel of dirt for a new post office project. He did so grudgingly and was about to make a bee-line for his limousine when an aide reminded him he had been expected to say a few words. Coolidge scowled at his audience, observed, "You've got some nice fishworms in this ground," and departed.

A lady who simply could not resist nibbling fruit, candy, and nuts between meals finally got so fat that a desperate remedy seemed called for. She elected to paste inside her refrigerator door a cut-out of a slender, perfectly built, unclad nymph.

The reminder worked like a charm. In one month she lost eleven pounds. Unfortunately, during the same period, her husband peered inside the refrigerator so often, HE gained twelve.

Speaking Of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

I was speaking in a university town. After the lecture a man came to me and said, "Thank you for having saved the lives of my four children." He went on to tell me that his children were saved because I had urged the need for fire drills in the home.

Recently he wrote to tell me that he was giving a course in fire prevention that brought him limitless pleasure and that his teachings had already been responsible for saving other lives in his community.

In a world filled with such great medical and surgical advances, a single life that is spared becomes a news item of great importance. It is a paradox, therefore, that there still is such wanton waste of lives by preventable fires.

Children today are protected against the crippling devastation of polio, diphtheria, tetanus and a host of other diseases. Yet young lives are sacrificed by carelessness and disregard for the death-dealing fire hazards that exist in our own homes.

Vast amounts of money are spent for hospitals, medicines, and physicians in an effort to restore the health of a single member of the family. However, these same families rarely can be induced to look for fire risks that surround them in the so-called safety of their homes.

National and local fire agencies and extensive educational campaigns aim at the senseless waste of lives by "preventable" fires.

The Institute of Home Fire Safety suggests:
1. Keep matches in metal containers out of reach of children. Use safety matches and check them for their afterglow. Get into the habit of breaking or tearing a match before throwing it away, to be sure that the fire is completely out.

2. Rid the home of inflammable gasoline, kerosenes and fuel oils unless kept in approved safety cans. Remember that flammable and inflammable mean the same thing namely that products will burn.

3. All electrical appliances and wiring must meet the rigid rules of the Underwriters Laboratory. Only qualified electricians should install new circuits in the home to avoid overloading.

4. Frayed, cracked cords with exposed wires must be replaced

Why Not Due Process?

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

The "Warren Court," which happily is no more, was always extremely solicitous of guaranteeing the mystic thing known as "due process of law" to criminals. The court's decisions in "Escobedo v. Illinois" (which established the right of a suspect to remain mum until he had consulted a lawyer) and "Miranda v. Arizona" (which insisted that the police inform an arrested person that he need not answer even the simplest question) have been criticized for giving protection to the individual at the expense of society. Whether this concern for the rights of suspects has undermined police morale, as Richard Nixon seemed to think when he was still only a Presidential aspirant, "Escobedo v. Illinois" and "Miranda v. Arizona" will probably stand up for a while even though the "Warren Court" is in process of being reconstituted.

But what of "due process" as it is applied to U.S. business? Between 1953 and 1967 the Government took a total of forty-five antitrust cases to the Supreme Court. It won forty-two of them. As Justice Potter Stewart put it, "In anti-trust the Government always wins." And in the winning, the rules prescribing "due process of law" have sometimes been honored in the breach, not in the observance.

The layman must be forever mystified by the reasoning in certain anti-trust cases. When Youngstown Steel was denied the right to merge with Bethlehem Steel on the ground that it might decrease competition, it made neither economic nor logical sense. Youngstown's plants were all in the Middle West and a combination with Bethlehem would have enabled the latter company to compete more effectively with huge U. S. Steel in the Chicago region without affecting competition on the Atlantic seaboard.

An even stranger case is the one in which the Supreme Court has ruled against the merger of the El Paso Natural Gas Company and the Pacific Northwest Pipeline Corporation after the Federal Power Commission, which is supposed to have regulatory jurisdiction over gas pipelines, had cleared the transaction.

The El Paso case is incredibly complex. When the company merged ten years ago with Pacific Northwest, the idea was that the hook-up would help make natural gas from the Southwest more cheaply available to people in the State of Washington. But the Supreme Court ruled that, since Pacific Northwest was a potential competitor with El Paso in the California market (even though it then had no pipeline connection with California), the merger violated the Clayton Anti-Trust Act. The management of El Paso was never able to understand the Court's reasoning, for, since the date of the Court's first decision, other pipeline companies have moved into the California area to provide El Paso with much competition for that particular market. Moreover, the gas consumers of the Pacific Northwest area have manifestly benefited by having a more plentiful gas supply than they had before the merger took place.

It is not the anti-trust reasoning, however, that is now troubling El Paso; it is the fact that the Supreme Court has let El Paso's attempt to divest itself of the Pacific Northwest Pipeline properties hang in limbo ever since 1964. Altogether the El Paso case has been before the Supreme Court four times in a decade. Twice the Supreme Court refused to let the pro-merger decisions of a lower court stand. Then, when the El Paso Company had worked out a divestiture plan that met with the approval of both the Department of Justice and a lower court, the Supreme Court reversed the district court decision and ordered a new trial and a new plan of divestiture. Back went the case to the lower court, where a new trial judge ruled that Colorado Interstate Corporation was the best qualified to acquire El Paso's Northwest pipelines. But the Supreme Court intervened once more, ordering still another trial.

The legal rights and wrongs of all this are enough to confound any layman. But the point is that the Supreme Court has yet to listen to an El Paso lawyer present the company's own case. "A day in court is all that we are asking," says a company spokesman.

Justice Harlan has said of the Court's refusal to give due process to a major pipeline company that "all semblance of judicial procedure has been discarded in the headstrong effort to reach a result that four members of this Court believe desirable." Common criminals, it seems, have made out better with the Court than American businessmen who have been trying to obey the law.

WASHINGTON MEMO

By Congressman
CHALMERS P. WYLIE
15th District of Ohio

The big news of the week as far as legislative action is concerned had to be the bill which would authorize appropriations for military procurement, research and development, for fiscal year 1970. The bill would authorize appropriations totaling $21,347,860,000. Department of Defense budget authorizations will total approximately $77.5 billion in new obligatory authority for fiscal year 1970.

This represents a reduction of $5.1 billion from budget requests by the Department of Defense. This bill was debated some six weeks in the Senate before coming to the House. The reason can readily be seen when we note that the bill includes authorizations for (1) an anti-ballistic missile (ABM) system — commonly referred to as Safeguard, (2) a C-5A jet transport, said to be the world's largest airplane, (3) the new Air Force F-15 about which there has been much debate, (4) the multiple, independently targetable re-entry vehicle (MIRV), (5) one additional new nuclear aircraft carrier, and (6) three new nuclear submarines among other defense items.

On Wednesday, the House passed amendments to the Railroad Retirement Act which would provide for increased financing necessary to continue present pensions and include an increase up to 35 per cent for railroaders with 25 or more years of service and receiving the minimum amount of $45 per month. In addition, the bill provides for mandatory retirement of all railroad employees, initially at age 70 and at age 65 after January 1, 1976, except individual employees may be retained beyond the mandatory retirement age where the carrier determines that the safety or efficiency would not be adversely affected by retention of the employee in service.

The bill was the result of some eight years of negotiations between a number of railroad brotherhoods and railroad management, according to the Chairman of the Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce, Mr. Harley O. Staggers.

On Monday, the House passed a bill which would extend for two additional years the authority of the Veterans Administration to set interest rates necessary to meet the mortgage market for guaranteed and insured home loans for veterans.

With the tight money market, veterans are finding it difficult to borrow money for home loans since commercial banks have increased their prime rate to 8 1/2 per cent. The current rate for home loans to veterans is 7 1/2 per cent pursuant to similar authority granted two years ago. The original law provides for interest not to exceed 6 per cent and thus the need for the action was demonstrated.

It was my privilege to attend a ceremony at The White House on September 29 honoring Frank Byers, Jr., of Columbus, who was presented the President's Gold Cup — symbol of winning the President's Regatta which was raced on the Potomac on June 7 and 8, 1969. This Cup is forty years old and is regarded by enthusiasts as the highest award of excellence which can be presented to boat racers.

We continue to receive a great deal of mail concerning crime in America, gun laws and in many instances, suggestions as to relationship between the two. Just this week I introduced a bill which would strengthen the penalty provisions of the Gun Control Act of 1968.

Simply stated, the bill provides that whoever uses a firearm to commit any felony which may be prosecuted in a court of the United States shall, in addition to the punishment provided for the commission of such felony, be sentenced to a term of imprisonment for not less than five years nor more than 10 years. There are other provisions for repeated offenses.

The bill further provides that the court shall not have the authority to suspend the sentence of any person or give him probation if found guilty under this section of the law.

One day last week I noted that there had been 80 armed robberies or muggings in the City of Washington during that day. We are all searching for ways to resolve the problem of crime in the United States. I don't feel that a federal gun registration law is the answer. Perhaps an additional severe penalty for the use of a gun in the commission of a crime will help.

Stokes' Road Fight Explained By Aide

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Cleveland Mayor Carl Stokes' objections to construction of interstate highways in his city only apply to two proposed freeways, I-290 and I-80, in the Hopkins International Airport area, according to Stokes' public service director.

Ralph C. Tyler told the highway expeditors conference here Monday that Stokes would not halt work on current freeway projects or those about to undergo construction.

Wright-Patterson Cutbacks Seen

DAYTON, Ohio (AP)—A federal cutback in military expenditures could mean Wright-Patterson Air Force Base stands to lose nearly 2,500 military and civilian jobs, The Dayton Daily News reported Monday.

The newspaper, in a copy-righted story, said the $3 billion cutback proposed by the Pentagon could mean a loss of $25 million to $30 million in annual payrolls during the next year. Resignations and retirement would take care of most of the civilian job reductions, the newspaper said. It added that some of the military personnel would take early discharges.

New Section Of I-77 Is Opened

CANTON, Ohio (AP)— Gov. James A. Rhodes Monday was to open the last link of Interstate 77 between Akron and Marietta on the Ohio River. The 15 miles of the north-south highway in Stark and Tuscarawas Counties will be open to traffic around 11 a.m.

Ohio has yet to build a section of the freeway in the Fairlawn area of Summit County north of Akron. Construction is still about three years away. The section opened by Rhodes was built at a cost of $20 million.

NEW YORK (AP) —The Doris Day of numerous hit movies is beginning to emerge in "The Doris Day Show," the CBS situation comedy that underwent radical—and needed—repairs over the summer.

Miss Day is wearing smart clothes, getting involved in urban situations, eating lobster thermidor and steering clear of the barn and the chicken yard that loomed so large in the series last season. The actress is an excellent comedienne and given half a chance could pull off an amusing series. But if Monday's show is any indication, she could use some more imaginative writing.

The story had Doris, now the secretary of a magazine writer—he dictates what sounds like high school themes—helping her boss escape a predatory woman. This leads to silly stuff, including having him introduce Doris as his wife. This leads to much sneaking around our heroine's farm home. It is all very innocent and far-fetched but perhaps the remodeled series is still on its shake-down cruise.

Network television tonight contains an example of a programming practice that deprives and infuriates the serious viewer and carves up the audiences each network seeks. Both CBS and NBC have important specials scheduled in conflicting periods—the first "CBS Playhouse" drama of the season and the NBC News Department's 2½-hour recapitulation of the decade soon to end. Since really special programs do not come along every night, it is hard to understand why they could not be scheduled so that viewers could see both.

"Appalachian Autumn," the CBS special, is Earl Hamner's 90-minute original television play about an American poverty pocket and a proud, close-knit family trying to survive in an area whose one industry, coal mining, has closed down.

The drama, seen in a preview, presents a warm portrait of the big Harper clan. The proud miner father who refuses relief money but instead risks his life scratching coal from an abandoned mine; his affectionate and patient wife; and children including a talented son with a special feeling for wet clay.

It gets into trouble when the characters are woven into the plot. A VISTA worker—a bearded college student who talks hip and carries a guitar—arrives to try to help the region. He seizes on Hugh Harper's skill with a pottery wheel and starts to have Hugh organize a cottage ceramic industry to put the community on its financial feet.

So far, so good, but then Hugh's involvement with a local girl makes him abandon the plan for an emergency marriage. It was hard to decide just what Hamner was saying about relieving grinding poverty in such places.

NBC's "From Here to the Seventies," 8:30-11 P.M., takes a look at many of the stirring and tragic events of the recent turbulent years with commentaries by staff newsmen on war, peace moonwalks, assassinations and dissent.

Jobless Rate On Upswing In September

WASHINGTON (AP) — Unemployment in September made its biggest leap in nine years and rose to its highest rate in two years, the Labor Department announced Monday.

The over-all unemployment rose from 3.5 per cent in August to 4 per cent in September, the largest increase since September-October 1960.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics noted that unemployment normally drops from August to September as young workers return to school—but it failed to drop this year. Unemployment was up 365,000 over the month, with two-fifths of the increase among workers in the 20 to 24 age group.

A spokesman for the bureau said the nation's level of employment is at its highest in history and that the unemployment boost signifies a slowdown in the rate of employment growth—mostly in the construction and government fields.

Over the year, unemployment has risen by 350,000, reflecting an increase of 150,000 for adult women and 100,000 each for adult men and teen-agers.

The actual number of unemployed persons in September totaled about three million. The 4 per cent unemployment rate was the highest since Oct. 1967, when it reached 4.2 per cent. The trend this year began with a 3.3 per cent average in the first quarter climbing to 3.5 in the second and 3.7 in the third.

The bureau said one explanation for the sharp increase might be that the September survey was taken early in the month, perhaps before a large number of young persons had yet re-entered school.

Pope Says Absolutism Still Valid

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI rejected Monday the concept of some Roman Catholic bishops and theologians that he as Pope does not have the exclusive right to rule the whole Church.

The 72-year-old pontiff, whose authority has been under fire since he issued his encyclical continuing the Church ban on artificial birth control last year, portrayed as enemies of "the one true Church" all who attack his power to rule.

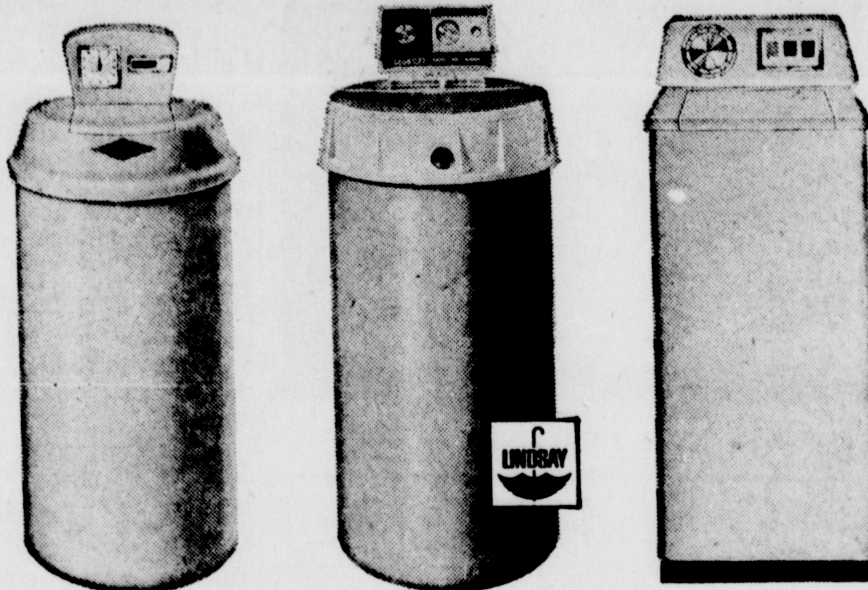

He made the statement to 30 theologians convened in Rome as an advisory commission. The theologians heard the Pope's words at a Mass in the Vatican's Matilde Chapel, then left by car for a secluded area to begin discussing the burning issues in the Church.

"The authority and security of (our) magisterium," Pope Paul told them, "derive from Christ himself."

"They are essential for the government, stability, peace and unity of God's Church. He who refuses it (the magisterium) or attacks it assails the one true Church, and therefore incurs a grave debt in regard to the souls that have the faith or are seeking it, and undergoes responsibility before God's judgment."

The first meeting of a commission of 30 leading theologians was the opening event in what promises to be the most lively series of encounters here since the end of the Second Vatican ecumenical council four years ago.

Miss Patricia Anne Collins Bride Of Philip J. Meves

MRS. PHILIP JEROME MEVES

Hedges Chapel United Methodist Church was the setting for the marriage of Miss Patricia Anne Collins and Mr. Philip Jerome Meves. Altar vases were filled with yellow gladiolus and mums and an arrangement of yellow, gold and bronze mums graced the organ.

The protestant-catholic service was officiated by Rev. John Glick and Rev. Father Ronald Rafferty. The double ring ceremony was performed 2:30 p.m. Sept. 20 for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald B. Collins, Route 1, Ashville and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald E. Meves of Alliance.

A music prelude was presented by Mrs. Joseph Peters, organist and Mrs. Ralph E. Dunkel, vocalist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired for her wedding day in a gown of ivory pristine pearl. The bodice featured pearls and crystals around the jewel neckline and full length sleeves of organza. The skirt of the skimmer designed gown swept into a chapel train with small covered buttons down the entire back. A crystal crown held her tiered elbow length illusion veil of ivory imported silk. She carried a crescent designed bouquet of white pompons and snowdrift mums entwined with ivy leaves. Miss Connie Collins served her sister as maid of honor with Miss Ann Meves, sister of the groom and Miss Kathy Dunkel, a cousin of the bride as bridesmaids. Junior bridesmaid was Miss Teresa Meves, sister of the bridegroom. The attendants were dressed in autumn green gowns with yellow and bronze mum headpieces and bouquets.

Mr. Danny McClowry performed the duties of best man with Mr. Eric Meves and Mr. Anthony Meves, brothers of the groom as ushers. Ringbearer was Michael Meves, another brother of the groom.

Mrs. Collins wore for her daughter's wedding a jade green dress trimmed in lace. Mrs. Meves was attired in a pink suit dress trimmed in fur at the neckline.

A reception in the church basement immediately followed the ceremony. The bridal table was centered with a four tiered wedding cake. Hostesses were Mrs. Terry Whetstone, Circleville; Mrs. Charles Amy, Brimfield; Mrs. Donald Hower, Columbus; Mrs. Michael Neff, Ashville and Miss Sally Dellinger, Springfield. Mrs. Eric Meves presided at the guest book.

The new Mrs. Meves, a graduate of Ohio State University, is employed as an elementary physical education specialist in the Columbus Public School system. Mr. Meves is attending Ohio State University, majoring in chemical engineering.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding were from Columbus, Amanda, Sheboygan, Wis.; Evanston, Ill.; Alliance, Springfield, Cleveland, Brimfield, Bellefontaine, Chatham, Ontario, Canada and Palmer, Mass.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Are Cats Harmful To Small Children?

DEAR ABBY: As a cat owner and unofficial pet consultant on the Jacksonville Journal, I found your letter about the ailurophobic (cat-hating) mother-in-law very interesting.

You are right. The story about cats sucking babies' breaths is an old wives tale, left over from the days when cats were thought to be messengers of the devil and the familiar companions of witches.

You are misled about ringworm, however. I once contracted ringworm from a Siamese kitten. It's not a major threat, however, and is easily recognized by patchy skin and "hald spots." If a cat HAS ringworm, it can be transmitted to humans — especially children.

Ringworm is found in cats who have roamed and been in contact with other animals. A well-cared-for s t a y-at-h-o-m-e cat as a rule does not have ringworm. Sincerely,

CAROLYN McELDOWNEN

DEAR ABBY: May I add my two cents to the cat problem?

We had a cat named MAYSHEH who was a real swinging bachelor, and before we realized it, MAYSHEH had picked up ringworm and had given it to all the kids in the family. The kids had to have their heads shaved, salve was applied daily, and they had to wear caps night and day. Believe me, it was a mess.

Cats are naturally clean animals, you are right there. But if a family wants to keep a cat as a house pet, the cat should never be allowed to cat around. Poor MAYSHEH was neutered at the peak of his prime and he still acts like he's mad because he knows what he's missing.

CAT LOVER

DEAR ABBY: I hasten to tell you what I know about cats, and being a cat breeder, I know something.

Cats CAN — not necessarily DO, but CAN carry ringworm.

Now, ringworm is not an internal parasite. It is a type of SKIN FUNGUS, annoying and unsightly, but easily cured. As a matter of fact, ANY warm-blooded animal can contract ringworm and transmit it to other animals and humans.

In warm, damp climates, we breeders look for this fungus every spring and take precautions to prevent it.

You are right. Cats DO NOT suck breath from a baby, but they should be kept out of a baby's crib for sanitation reasons.

I had cats before I had children and I certainly didn't get rid of the cats. Hope this helps.

MRS. C. M. Mc

DEAR ABBY: Maybe YOU SAY that cats do not suck breath from babies, but I know better. Why, I pulled our cat from off my baby's chest just in the nick of time to save that child's life. Here that big old cat was, right on top of her, ready to suffocate her! They say the cats can smell milk around the baby's mouth and that is what attracts them.

MRS. L. R. W.

OKLAHOMA CITY

DEAR ABBY: Shame on that woman who told her pregnant daughter - in-law she should get rid of her pet cat before bringing a new-born baby into the house!

Of course ANY animal which HAS a disease can infect the human members of the family, but why assume ALL cats have ringworm?

I have raised all my children with cats, and they make wonderful pets. I have adopted many stray kittens and cats, but only after taking them to the vets to determine the condition of their health first. ALL house pets should be confined to the house, and should they get loose outside and come into contact with other animals, they should be examined by a vet before allowed to join the family again.

Viet Widow Of Lost Agent Paid $6,472

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. government has paid $6,472 to the wife of the reported Vietnamese double agent in the Green Beret murder case, but the U.S. Command described the payment as a "missing person gratuity."

A spokesman said the woman, Phan Kim Lien, accepted the payment Saturday. He added: "The amount of the settlement was mutually agreed upon and represents what is determined to be adequate compensation."

Asked how the amount was arrived at, he said the number of children in the family and other factors were taken into consideration.

The spokesman said the woman's husband, Thai Khan Chuyen, "has been missing since June 20 while on duty with the U.S. Special Forces, Detachment B41, Moc Hoa, Republic of Vietnam."

"There is no evidence that he is dead," the spokesman said. "He is considered to be missing."

After the U.S. Command announced the murder charges against the Green Berets, Chuyen's wife filed a claim with the U.S. Embassy Aug. 23 accusing the Green Berets of killing her husband and asking for full information about the case. When the charges were dropped, she made a tearful visit to the embassy to protest.

Reports said her husband had been exposed as a double agent and was slain June 20 near the Special Forces headquarters at Nha Trang. The body reportedly was put into a weighted bag and dumped into the South China Sea. So far as is known, the body has not been recovered.

FDA Sets Hurry-Up Check On Dangers Of Cyclamate

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Food and Drug Administration, nearly a year after government scientists reported a possible health hazard, is showing signs of concern about cyclamate, an artificial sweetener used by an estimated 175 million Americans.

The sweetener, known as cyclamate, has been linked recently to severe birth defects in chickens.

Cyclamate is found in a wide range of products from bacon to children's vitamins to diet soft drinks and diet foods.

FDA scientists reported in late October 1968 that a cyclamate break-down product formed by one of every five humans who use the sweetener causes a shattering of genetic material when given to rats. Comparative genetic breaks in humans are associated with birth deformities and cancer.

Following network television accounts of the deformed chicks, FDA commissioner Herbert L. Ley, Jr. called late last week for a 30-day, hurry-up evaluation of cyclamates by the non-governmental National Academy of Science.

Companies often give away souvenirs or offer samples of their products. Wine companies in New York, Ohio and California gladly open up their "tasting rooms" after the visitors have seen the grape's progress from vineyard to bottle.

On its delivery, said Ley, "I will decide the best methods of restricting the use of cyclamates."

Consumer spokesmen on Capitol Hill, led by Senator Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash., have complained the FDA has reacted too slowly to cyclamate danger signs.

The agency failed to alert a National Academy of Science Panel to the FDA chromosome study, the critics say. The NAS panel issued a generally favorable report on cyclamates in December.

And, the critics point to the fact that Ley waited 4 months after the report before proposing what they say are mild labelling restrictions on cyclamate use.

Products would have to show cyclamate content, and adults and children would be advised to limit their intake of the substance. The proposed regulations have not yet been put into effect.

Drivers Kiss After Accident

NAPIER, South Africa (AP) — Two cars collided in the main street of this small Western Cape Province town. The two drivers got out, walked up to each other — and kissed. Mrs. C. van Dyk later explained she recognized her father-in-law, Hendrik van Dyk, immediately after the accident. It just seemed natural they should greet each other before inspecting the damage — which wasn't serious, anyway.

Rock Festival A Wild One

JACKSON, Calif. (AP) — Amador County settled back into its rural routine Monday after a weekend rock music festival that drew an estimated 40,000 young people.

Sheriff's deputies and local police said they made no arrests at the festival site, 30 miles southeast of Sacramento in the old gold country foothills.

The only problems were traffic and about a dozen persons who suffered from overdoses of hard drugs, authorities said.

Newsman saw marijuana smoked openly, and said harder drugs such as LSD also were being taken freely. Ronald Curran, a county undersheriff, said as he watched scores of youths swim naked: "A man would have to be crazy to walk into that crowd and pull somebody out. They would tear you apart."

Festival sponsors, headed by Dr. James Davis of Stockton, reported selling about 20,000 tickets and said about an equal number of persons attended free at the site next to Lake Amador.

Stokowski Opens Season With First-Nighter Cheers

By STANLEY JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Leopold Stokowski opened his 60th season of conducting in America Monday night with a flash of his old-time temperament that brought cheers from a first-night audience at Carnegie Hall.

Almost 100 bars through Franz Liszt's 2nd Hungarian Rhapsody, the 82-year-old maestro stopped the American Symphony Orchestra in midmelody, turned, pushed one of his famous "magic hands" towards an erring player in the bass section, shouted, "out! out!" and started the piece again.

The orchestra responded to his batonless direction and played up a storm with the rousing old warhorse of a tune. The listeners—some had paid $50 for an orchestra seat—shouted for an encore and got it.

It was a great night for music lovers, provided they loved Liszt's 2nd Hungarian Rhapsody.

Stokowski's white hair was considerably thinner than during the quarter century he led the Philadelphia Orchestra, and his well-known stride to the podium has become more a halting walk, but the music he drew from the orchestra was as youthful and vivid as ever.

"Through some alchemy, Stokowski has found the secret of how to stay young forever," said Philippe de Seynes, U.N. undersecretary-general for economic affairs, in an intermission speech.

The evening was billed as a tribute to the United Nations and the flags of the 126 members hung from the boxes.

There was no mention of retirement and no public mention that this was the 60th anniversary of Stokowski becoming conductor of the Cincinnati Orchestra in 1909.

Accident Suit Comes To End

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — A $115,000 settlement for an Alliance man who suffered brain injuries in an automobile accident nearly three years ago has ended a jury trial in U.S. District Court here following 10 days of testimony.

The settlement went to Paul R. Space, 32, who had sued Burroughs-Wellcome Co. for $750,000.

Judge Thomas D. Lambros announced Monday that lawyers for both sides had worked out a settlement and that he had dismissed the jury.

Space, father of three children, was injured in a head-on collision near Damascus, Ohio, in December, 1966.

It was alleged that the collision was caused by negligence on the part of a driver from Burroughs-Wellcome.

The truck and station wagon were for the County Engineer's Department and the cruiser for the Sheriff's Department.

Harden Chevrolets' bid of $2,221.93 was accepted for the station wagon. Wes Edstrom Motors also submitted a bid of $2,303.38.

Clifton Motors submitted a bid of $3,400.00 on an Oldsmobile for the Sheriff's Dept. There were no other bids. Clifton's was accepted.

Joe Moats Motor Sales did not get bids in by the noon deadline and were not accepted.

There were no offers on a second cruiser and the Commissioners, Charles Morris, Dick Tootle and Wayne Hines will re-advertise for bids.

James Ryan, Toyota's assistant national sales manager in the United States, said the number of dealers handling Toyotas has increased from 728 on Oct. 1, 1968, to 752 on Oct. 1, 1969. More important, he adds, the number of dealers handling Toyotas only has gone from 329 to 406.

Two American automakers are now marketing cars priced under $2,000. Ford's Maverick has a manufacturer's suggested retail price of $1,995 and American Motors' Hornet is priced at $1,994.

Toyota's Corolla four-door sedan has an average U.S. price of $1,790.

The average manufacturer's price for a four-door sedan in Toyota's bread-and-butter series, the Corona, is $2,066.

The price of a standard Volkswagen Beetle in New York is $1,799.

Volkswagen sales slipped by 9.2 per cent during the first nine months of the year to 396,993 compared with 437,208 in 1968. Arthur Railton, vice president of Volkswagen of America, said the firm's share of total U.S. car sales has since been steadily increasing. In August of this year, he said, VW captured six per cent of the total U.S. market.

Railton noted that the first quarter of the current model year was marked by long dock strikes on the U.S. Eastern and Gulf Coasts, which he said caused a sales drop of 25,000 Volkswagens for the quarter.

By the time the current model year is completed on Oct. 16, Railton predicted, VW sales will number about 537,000—more than 1,000 above the comparable period last year.

UC Nixes Shutdown For Protest

CINCINNATI (AP) — The president of the student body at the University of Cincinnati criticized the UC administration for not consulting with the students before turning down a request to cancel classes for a Vietnam moratorium Oct. 15, although the students will be allowed to cut classes without penalty.

Mark Painter, student president, said the university, in not calling the students into a faculty executive meeting where the decision was made, failed to "hear both sides of the question."

The school designated the UC fieldhouse for use by those seeking to take part in the day of discussion on the war.

But UC president Dr. Walter Langsam, who referred the request of the UC student senate to the commission of deans, said that professors "should recognize their responsibility to provide uninterrupted class instruction for those of their students who prefer to go on with their regular classwork."

The UC decision concurred with that of Miami University by President Dr. Philip Shriver, in nearby Oxford. Facilities were also available at Miami but classes will be held.

Art Linkletter Daughter Dies Of LSD Use

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Art Linkletter blames LSD for the death of his 20-year-old daughter.

"It wasn't suicide," the star of the House Party television show told newsmen Sunday, "because she wasn't herself. It was murder. She was murdered by the people who manufacture and sell LSD."

Diane Linkletter plunged from the kitchen window of her sixth-floor apartment Saturday as a friend, Edward Durston, tried to grab her.

Linkletter, 57, said he had known for six months that she was part of a Hollywood group that experimented with drugs.

Durston, 27, told police Miss Linkletter had asked him to come to her apartment Friday where they spent the night talking. She was emotional and despondent, concerned with her identity and her career, police quoted Durston as saying.

Drugs aspects of the case are still being investigated, police said.

Imported Car Sales Zoom As Japan Gains Strength

DETROIT (AP) —Germany's Volkswagen, still easily the best selling foreign car in the United States, has had a sales slump and faces stiffer competition from automakers in Japan and Detroit.

During the first nine months of 1969, Japan's Toyota has increased its U.S. sales by 94 per cent over the same period in 1968. With 93,427 sales, it leaped into the No. 2 position among imports, replacing General Motors' German-made Opel.

Another Japanese make, Datsun, had an estimated 58 per cent increase to 63,709 sales and took over the No. 4 spot, which had belonged to British Leyland, marketers of MG, Austin, Jaguar, Rover and Triumph.

James Ryan, Toyota's assistant national sales manager in the United States, said the number of dealers handling Toyotas has increased from 728 on Oct. 1, 1968, to 752 on Oct. 1, 1969. More important, he adds, the number of dealers handling Toyotas only has gone from 329 to 406.

Fair Skies Cover Much Of Nation

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Twin high pressure domes—one centered over Utah and the other along the East Coast—yielded fair weather for most of the nation today.

A line of showers and thunder-showers from Michigan and Ohio to the lower Mississippi Valley divided the two highs.

An inch or so of rain fell at Baton Rouge, La., and Cape Girardeau, Mo.

Scattered showers also damped parts of the south Atlantic coastal region, the Dakotas and Minnesota.

Temperatures were mostly mild in the eastern half of the nation, but somewhat chilly in the West.

In the early morning, temperatures ranged from 29 at Evanston, Wyo., to 80 at the Corpus Christi Naval Air Station in Texas and at Melbourne, Fla.

Negro Candidate Favored In Atlanta Mayor's Race

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Despite bitter infighting among Negro leaders, the first black candidate for mayor of Atlanta in this century was one of the favorites in a municipal primary today.

Gov. Lester Maddox predicted that Negro educator Horace E. Tate would finish first in the mayoral field of seven. If none gets a majority, which is virtually certain, a runoff election among the top two will be held Oct. 16.

Tate said Monday he had been forced to hire bodyguards because of anonymous threats. A group of Negroes opposing him asserted they had been subjected to personal attacks.

A turnout of about 150,000 voters was expected in the nonpartisan primary.

The black community has about 40 per cent of the registered voters.

Mayor Ivan Allen Jr., a Democrat who is stepping down after two four-year terms, said the waning days of the campaign had seen a shift of Negro votes to Tate.

Tate, in his report of threats, said: "Apparently somebody is out to keep me from winning at all costs."

Top contenders with Tate in the tight race are Vice Mayor Sam Massell and Aldermen Rodney Cook and G. Everett Millican.

State Sen. Leroy R. Johnson, speaking for a Negro group supporting Massell, told a news conference that he and his companions weren't blaming Tate for attacks against them.

But he added: "We do know that there is a group supporting Dr. Tate that is attempting to silence any Negro who wishes to speak out for, and vote for, any candidate other than Dr. Tate."

Tate has the endorsement of Coretta Scott King, the widow of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.; the Rev. Ralph David Abernathy, King's successor in the civil rights movement, and state Rep. Julian Bond.

Tate and Massell apparently had much of the Negro vote, although Cook—the only Republican in the field—hoped to pick up some if it.

Cook, 45, has the support of many prominent businessmen. His opponents call him the "establishment" candidate.

Millican, 72, who made "law and order with justice" his slogan, said the main issue was law enforcement.

Teacher Wins Mustache Fight

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Thomas Himler, 27-year-old teacher in suburban Maple Heights who was suspended Sept. 15 because his mustache was too long, was reinstated Monday night by the suburb's Board of Education.

The board reinstated Himler with full back pay on the recommendation of Supt. Harry Salisbury and was to report today to Broadway School, where he is a fifth-grade teacher.

"Because of this issue," the statement said, "many members of the community as well as members of the school staff are fast becoming polarized to the point their divisiveness is more disruptive to the education of the pupils in this system than Mr. Himler's return to the classroom as he is."

Ohio Official Raps Probe Of Pollution

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Federal hearings for three Cleveland steel companies accused of violating clean water standards were described by an Ohio official today as "a serious breach of faith" with Ohio water pollution control programs.

The accusation was made by Dr. E. W. Arnold, chairman of the Ohio Water Pollution Control Board, in a statement prepared for presentation at the opening of the hearings.

Dr. Arnold, also director of the Ohio Health Department, said Monday that the hearings were a "waste of time and money."

"Federal-state relationships in our unified efforts to abate the pollution in Lake Erie and its tributary streams could be impaired by uncooperative actions such as this meeting here today," he said in his statement. "We resent it, but we are willing to submit all of the facts as we know them with the hope that a more rigorous program for clean-up of Ohio waters will result."

Arnold said none of the steel companies — Republic Steel Corp., U.S. Steel Corp. and Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp. — has violated Ohio Water Pollution Control Board permits "at this time."

He said that is why he was at "a complete loss" to understand the need for the hearings, which were scheduled by Interior Secretary Walter J. Hickel early last month following a study of the Cuyahoga River and Lake Erie by a special task force.

Findings of the study have not been made public by federal pollution officials, but they are expected to be announced Wednesday.

Aussie Admits To Mosque Fire

JERUSALEM (AP) — Michael Denis Rohan admitted in court today that he set fire to the Al Aqsa Mosque on Aug. 21 but pleaded "mental illness."

Defense Attorney Yitzhak Tunik entered the plea for the 28-year-old Australian sheep-shearer a few minutes after the start of the second day in his trial before three Israeli judges.

At the opening of the trial Monday, a police superintendent testified that Rohan, in a detailed confession, told police he set fire to the Jerusalem mosque to clear the site for the rebuilding there of Solomon's Temple.

The site in Old Jerusalem is hallowed by Moslems as the spot from which the Prophet Mohammed ascended into Heaven, and by Jews as the site of Solomon's Temple. The Wailing Wall at one side is the last surviving remnant of the temple. Rohan is a member of a Christian sect which believes that the Messiah will not come until the temple is rebuilt.

At the start of the trial Tunik announced that Rohan admitted neither the four charges of arson and desecration of a holy place filed against him nor any of the facts in the indictment. But today the defense attorney told the court the young Australian admitted setting the fire Aug. 21 and also making a prior attempt to set the mosque ablaze on Aug. 11.

The statement also admitted that Rohan had been living in hotels in Jerusalem, frequently visiting the mosque and purchasing materials used in the arson. But Tunik claimed that the defendant had not made the purchases with the firing of the mosque in mind.

Rohan is "not punishable by law" because of his mental condition, "which rendered him incapable of creating criminal intentions," Tunik told the court. Israeli Atty. Gen. Meir Shamgar asked for the trial to continue "despite Rohan's claim of mental instability."

"Let us prove the facts," the chief prosecutor said, adding that Rohan's mental condition could only be decided after all 43 prosecution witnesses were heard.

It was obvious that the Israeli government was determined to get the maximum publicity for its case against Rohan. Through the trial the government seeks to refute Arab charges that Israeli occupation of the Old City since the 1967 war was responsible for the fire.

The judges consulted for 10 minutes, then ruled that the trial would continue. As they talked, Rohan watched from his bulletproof glass booth at the left side of the stage in the convention hall-courtroom. His chin was cupped in his hands as he stared at the jurists.

Controversy Over Busing Of Students Still Unsettled

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Few aspects of integration ignited more furor in recent years than school busing. Now, five years after the inception of busing programs, the controversy has not diminished.

One of the first busing programs began in Berkeley, Calif., in 1964, under the auspices of Neil V. Sullivan, the then superintendent of schools, now commissioner of education in Massachusetts.

Today, an Associated Press survey shows, every pupil takes the bus in Berkeley.

From kindergarten through third grade, everybody goes to school in the predominantly white neighborhoods of the hill section. From fourth through sixth grade, they attend schools in the predominantly Negro neighborhoods near the water. Then, everybody goes to the same junior and senior high schools located near the middle of the city.

There have been no serious problems, but William D. Rhodes, coordinator of special programs for the school system, says "there are always problems with kids."

"At one time I was principal of a black school and if our ball team was playing another black team, it was just kids. But with whites and blacks it becomes a racial incident."

In Pittsburgh, the city is constructing "middle schools" for sixth, seventh and eighth grades to relieve overcrowding of Negro neighborhood schools, a chronic problem for most cities. As a secondary effect, integration has occurred as Negroes and whites are sent to the middle schools. Public transportation is used, but parents are reimbursed by the city.

But a number of white parents are unhappy about the new system. A leader of the antibusing movement is the Rev. Alan Walbridge, white minister of All Saints Episcopal Church in suburban Brighton Heights.

A former teacher, he has started his own school with 42 pupils taught by five accredited teachers. He calls the school a protest against "educational heresy."

"This new system lowers the standard of education," he complains. "It's called compensatory education, but what really happens is that instead of having six schools of 1,000 pupils, you have one overcrowded school of 6,000. It deprives the privileged for the sake of the underprivileged."

"What also goes against my grain is my little children riding public buses, sometimes in subzero weather, to places I've never even seen. They might get lost or never come home."

Opposition to busing is also coming from some Negroes, who oppose one-way programs where Negroes ride buses to attend white schools out of their neighborhoods, but where white pupils do not have to travel to the Negro schools.

"Why should our kids be the only ones forced to cross half the city to go to school?" says Phyllis Scott, a Negro mother who led a boycott of public schools in Grand Rapids, Mich., when schools opened in September. Busing is part of the school board's plan to achieve full integration of schools by 1976.

Grand Rapids, which has about 37,000 pupils—6,300 Negro, is also getting flak from white parents who don't want the Negro pupils attending their formerly all-white schools. One group, using radio ads and newsletters, claims credit for electing three of nine school board members last April on an antibusing platform.

And in Denver, which began one of the largest two-way busing programs this year, two opponents of mandatory busing were elected to the city school board by residents.

The victory gave busing opponents a 4-3 edge on the board, and at the first meeting after the election, the new board rescinded previous compulsory busing plans and set up a plan for voluntary busing.

But the courts ordered the original plan carried out and the school board has agreed while it appeals the order.

Some cities report success with busing programs.

The city of Rochester, in upper New York State, has 46,500 pupils, 14,000 nonwhite. About 1,500 nonwhite pupils are bused to white city schools, 440 nonwhites to suburban public and parochial and about 800 white pupils attend Negro schools. The program is voluntary.

School district officials term the program successful. Some teachers and parents say they want even more integration.

In Buffalo, another upstate New York city, where busing has been going on since 1965, about 2,300 Negroes are bused to white schools.

School officials there say Negro pupils bused to white schools progressed academically better at a better pace than Negro pupils who remained in their old schools.

In Massachusetts, two busing programs are in existence, both in their fourth year of operation.

One transports about 500 pupils between school districts within Boston. The other buses about 1,200 children in 39 Greater Boston cities.

The commonwealth enacted a racial imbalance law in 1965 prohibiting Massachusetts schools from having more than a 50 per cent Negro population. Commissioner Sullivan and the Department of Education are now working with several experimental programs tied in with busing pupils.

A new $4-million school, with the latest in facilities and instruction techniques, has been located in Roxbury, the heart of Boston's Negro section.

To keep things equal, even the Negro pupils are bused to the school.

White pupils are being bused into Roxbury from white neighborhoods to attend classes with Negroes. There are about 375 Negroes in the 750 pupil school, a violation of the imbalance law, but Sullivan says it's only temporary.

"The importance of the school is that over 300 white parents are waiting to have their kids bused into the blackest of areas. We think this is significant," he says.

"And it's not the hippie parents you'd expect. These are working people, not flaming liberals."

The outlook seems good for expansion of busing in Boston, he says, a city which did not accept integration easily.

One of the biggest opponents of busing, Louise Day Hicks, comes from Boston. She is a former school committee member and ran unsuccessfully for mayor on a "neighborhood" schools platform.

Sullivan thinks busing is the best way to integrate schools in American cities.

"I say that it's possible to integrate without busing, but I don't know where one of those cities exists," he says. "It's fair to all concerned. It's absolutely the best way to get to school. The fastest way and the most economical."

"The most dangerous way is to walk to school and the second most dangerous way is to ride with mother in the family car. Traffic safety records will bear me out."

"If you can provide a good education, people don't mind busing. Transportation does not become the problem. All they want at the end of the bus ride is quality education."

U.S. Ratings Put NBC In Top Spot

NEW YORK (AP) — NBC took first place and CBS second place Monday in the first national Nielsen ratings for the television season. ABC was third.

In the 70-city ratings—a separate rating for big cities—issued Friday, which covers 67 per cent of the viewing public, NBC was first, ABC second and CBS third. Both ratings are for Sept. 22-28.

The variance in the ratings reflects the appeal of the networks to different markets.

CBS, with a strong appeal to small towns and rural areas and to older people, placed second nationally but third in the urban ratings.

ABC's programming largely is geared to younger audiences and its popularity is in the cities.

NBC has a variety of programs appealing to various audiences, although it aims mainly for the urban audience.

Here are the top 10 national-

1. The Bob Hope Special, NBC. 2. "Laugh-In," NBC, and NBC's Saturday Night at the Movies, tied. 4. "The Bill Cosby Show," NBC. 5. The Charlie Brown Special, CBS. 6. ABC Sunday Night at the Movies. 7. Walt Disney, NBC. 8. The Flip Wilson Special, NBC. 9. "Marcus Welby, M.D.," ABC. 10. Dean Martin, NBC.

NBC placed nine shows in the top 20, CBS 7 and ABC 4.

Such CBS favorites as "Gunsmoke" and "Family Affair" moved into the national top 20, as did the new Jim Nabors Show.

OSU Easy First In Grid Ratings

By BEN OLAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Ohio State Buckeyes, still solid leaders in The Associated Press' major college football poll, next take on Michigan State, the team that gave them their toughest battle during an undefeated 1968 season.

The Buckeyes, who had a 10-0 record last season, including a Rose Bowl triumph over Southern California, were able to beat the Spartans by only five points, 25-20, Michigan State, with a 2-1 record, is ranked 19th this year.

Ohio State, 2-0 in 1969 after walloping Washington 41-14 last Saturday, drew 34 votes for first-place and accumulated 806 points in the most recent balloting by 41 sports writers and broadcasters on the AP's regional panel.

Texas, which crushed Navy 56-17, climbed from fourth into second place. The Longhorns replaced Penn State, which tumbled to fifth after its 17-14 squeaker victory over Kansas State. Arkansas held third place and Southern California moved up one notch to fourth.

Georgia, in sixth place, Missouri, Oklahoma, Purdue and Tennessee round out the Top Ten.

Georgia and Missouri gained ground. The Bulldogs, seventh a week ago, downed South Carolina, 41-16 while Missouri soared two spots after crushing Michigan 40-17. Oklahoma, idle last weekend, fell two positions while Purdue, which just managed to beat Stanford, 36-35, slipped from eighth to ninth. Tennessee a 55-16 winner over Memphis State, held 10th place. Notre Dame moved back into

Hayes Sees Michigan State As Tough, 'Up' For Game

By HAL PARIS
Associated Press Sports Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Coach Duffy Daugherty brings his battered Michigan State football team to Columbus Saturday with the Spartans' image tarnished by a 42-23 loss to Notre Dame.

The much-heralded Ohio State-Michigan State duel was expected to be a battle of unbeaten before the Irish creamed the Spartans.

But Coach Woody Hayes is understandably worried about the inconsistent Michigan club. "They always are a highly competitive team," Hayes told his Monday press luncheon. "They gave us a great game last year and we expect a splendid contest Saturday."

The No. 1 ranked Buckeyes waited to their 16th straight victory last Saturday—a 41-14 romp over Washington—and are sound physically for their Big Ten opener.

While repelling 10 straight foes last year, the Bucks survived a 25-20 scare from the Spartans, their closest call.

Esco Sarkkinen, the Buckeye spy who watched the Irish-Spartan tiff, doesn't look for an easy game.

"We're expecting a charged up Spartan team. They have mostly veterans and the backfield is a good one."

Bill Triplett, a standout junior quarterback who almost engineered an upset of the Bucks last year, is the key to Michigan State's hopes.

Single Better Gets $24,270 In Race

SALEM, N.H. (AP) — A single better collected $24,270.80 for a $2 investment in the Exacta Big E pool at Rockingham Park Monday night.

Exacta bettors must pick the first and second horse in the fifth and sixth races to win.

the Top Twenty, advancing to 15th after downing Michigan State, 42-28. Nebraska and Auburn are the other newly-ranked teams, finishing in a tie for 20th place. Michigan and Mississippi dropped out of the ratings. Mississippi lost to Alabama, 33-23.

The Second Ten rankings in order are UCLA, 11th, followed by Florida, Alabama, Louisiana State, Notre Dame, Stanford, West Virginia, Wyoming, Michigan State and Nebraska and Auburn in a deadlock.

Texas faces Oklahoma this Saturday while Arkansas plays Baylor and Southern California meets Stanford. Penn State clashes with West Virginia. Georgia takes on Mississippi. Missouri faces Nebraska. Purdue plays Michigan and Tennessee's opponent is Georgia Tech.

The Top Twenty, with first-place votes in parentheses and points awarded for first 15 picks on basis of 20-18-16-14-12-10-8 etc:

1. Ohio State (34)	806
2. Texas (5)	632
3. Arkansas	533
4. S. California (1)	498
5. Penn State (1)	490
6. Georgia	407
7. Missouri	332
8. Oklahoma	319
9. Purdue	268
10. Tennessee	241
11. UCLA	198
12. Florida	168
13. Alabama	145
14. Louisiana St.	142
15. Notre Dame	39
16. Stanford	33
17. West Virginia	28
18. Wyoming	19
19. Michigan St.	16
20. Tie Nebraska Auburn	13

"Triplett is ideal for their veer option attack because of his running ability," Sarkkinen noted.

He lauded Eric Allen as the Spartans' best breakaway threat and backs Kermit Smith and Don Highsmith as solid power runners.

Before losing to Notre Dame, Michigan State topped Washington and SMU but needed a 20-point fourth quarter to get by the Huskies, 27-11.

Ohio State, with 103 points in its first two conquests, may find the Spartans' defense a bit more stingy. "We know they will give us more defensive pressure than our first two opponents," Sarkkinen said.

Monte Clark Sees Browns As Victors

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Veteran offensive tackle Monte Clark says the Cleveland Browns will bounce back from the defeat by the Detroit Lions Sunday and go on to retain the National Football League Century Division title.

He expressed that opinion in addressing the Quarterback Club Monday and said, "A loss like that is bad only if you don't learn anything from it. If you do and you improve then it can be a blessing in disguise."

Rick Barry Still Object Of Lawsuit

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Rick Barry is busy playing basketball for the Washington Capitals but the San Francisco Warriors are doing everything they can to get him back.

The National Basketball Association Warriors, who are being sued for $10 million by the Caps of the American Basketball Association, filed an $8 million suit of their own Monday while answering the charges in the Caps' suit.

Mets Smash Braves, Face Baltimore

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Maybe the graffiti scratched into the center field wall said it best:

"Met Power."

Maybe outfielder Cleon Jones said it best:

"We're the greatest team in the world right now. Nobody can stop us ... Atlanta, Baltimore ... nobody. We're gonna win it all."

Maybe the statistics said it best:

Three consecutive victories over Atlanta by 9-5, 11-6 and 7-4 scores, 37 hits, 27 runs, 6 homers.

Whoever or whatever said it best, the incredible implausible, impossible Mets of New York have trampled Atlanta in three straight on the way to the National League pennant and qualified to meet the Baltimore Orioles in the World Series starting next Saturday.

That there will be a four-day layoff before the resumption of play for a team that begins in every way to appear invincible can only serve to temper the feelings of those who reveled in Monday's glorious moments.

They include the galaxy of Met heroes who were drowned in the champagne shower in the jam-packed dressing room, homer hitters Wayne Garrett, Tommy Agee and Ken Boswell and pitcher Nolan Ryan, who limited the Braves to three hits in seven innings.

And they include the galaxy of Mets fans who poured out of the stands in full force following the final out and again stole everything in sight to take home as souvenirs—sod, home plate, the pitcher's rubber, the bases. Why they did it is simple, explained one young fan, 17-year-old George Defazio of Patchogue, N.Y.

"We did it because we want part of the Mets—because the Mets are the greatest."

Only the Orioles can quarrel with that now. And maybe not even the team with Frank Robinson, Boog Powell and Brooks Robinson, who romped past Minnesota in three straight, will be able to win the argument.

For at this moment in history, after seven years during which they were the uncrowned clown princes of baseball, the picture has irrevocably changes. These Mets have pitching. And when they don't have pitching, they have hitting. They proved during the regular season they have the former in aces Tom Seaver and Jerry Koosman and they proved in this playoff series they had the latter.

Seaver couldn't go the distance. Koosman couldn't go the distance. And Monday Gary Gentry couldn't go the distance. It didn't matter. A .327 team batting average took care of everything.

"When we start hitting like that," said Koosman, "there's no way anyone is going to beat us."

No one is going to beat them the way Ryan pitched in relief, either. He took over in the third inning with the Braves threatening after they already had pulled ahead 2-0 on a single by Tony Gonzalez and Hank Aaron's third homer of the playoffs.

The 22-year-old right-hander took over with a 1-2 count on Rico Carty and struck him out. He then issued an intentional walk to Orlando Cepeda that loaded the bases and proceeded to strike out Cleo Boyer and get Bob Didier on a soft fly.

"The turning point was when Ryan came in and stopped them without a run," said Manager Gil Hodges. "I thought if it came down to hitting, we'd be the underdogs."

Hodges, however, was wrong. He got both the pitching he needed, from Ryan, and the hitting he needed, too.

The Mets made it 2-1 when Agee homered in the third inning and pulled ahead 3-2 in the fourth when Boswell slammed a two-run shot. Cepeda temporarily put the Braves back in front with a two-run homer, but then the most improbable of Met heroes came through.

Wayne Garrett, the young red-headed third baseman, stepped up in the Mets' half of the fifth inning and matched his entire home run output for the regular season by hitting a two-run shot that pulled the Mets ahead 5-4.

They didn't need any more. But they got two, on a run-producing single by Boswell later in the inning and a runs-scoring single by Agee an inning later.

And so there are no more National League world to conquer. It's the American League's turn now to get a look at the new Mets.

They will begin Saturday. And they may be surprised.

"I think," said an obviously disappointed Aaron in the Braves' dressing room, "they are going to beat them." So do the Mets.

Upper Arlington Retains Top Spot In Prep Grid Rankings

By HAL PARIS
Associated Press Sports Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Things are getting tighter at the top but Upper Arlington's Golden Bears still are the No. 1 ranked high school football team in the weekly Associated Press poll.

Coach Marv Moorehead's powerhouse ripped Lima Senior 42-0 last Friday, their 24th straight conquest, and garnered 186 points from the writers and sportscasters who vote in the poll.

Canton McKinley, like Arlington 5-0, pushed to within nine points of the leader after whacking Canton Lincoln 45-13.

There were no changes in the top seven teams in Class AA Niles, idle last week, held third place on 144 points while Warren Western Reserve was fourth again on 123 points after humiliating Warren Harding, 30-0.

Elyria was fifth followed by Sandusky, Zanesville, Cincinnati Moeller, newcomer Jackson of Jackson County and once-beaten Massillon.

Moeller climbed from 10th to No. 8 displacing Mentor which fell to 20th after losing its second to Berea Midpark, 10-9.

The standings could be in for a shakeup after this week's action that finds No. 7 Zanesville challenging Upper Arlington and Niles battling Canton McKinley.

Newark Catholic, last year's Class A titlist, again held first place after bombing East Knox, 36-0. Catholic rolled up 182 points, 22 more than collected by Norwalk St. Paul, which barely edged Edison, 7-6.

McDonald was third followed by Cory - Rawson, Granville, New Albany, Marion Catholic, Dennison St. Mary, Mechanicsburg and Paint Valley.

The latter two crashed the elite circle for the first time when fifth-ranked Mount Gilead and No. 8 Dover St. Joseph dropped out after setbacks.

Dover lost to Dennison St. Mary's, 26-6, and Mount Gilead bowed to Big Walnut, 8-6. The victory lifted Dennison from 10th to No. 8.

Newark Catholic gets its toughest test in two weeks when it visits No. 6 New Albany.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) Here's the way the teams are ranked in the weekly Associated Press high school football poll (points on a 10, 9, 8, etc. basis):

School	W.	L.	T.	Pts.
1. Upper Arlington	5	0	0	186
2. Canton McKinley	5	0	0	177
3. Niles McKinley	4	0	0	144
4. War. W. Reserve	5	0	0	123
5. Elyria	5	0	0	107
6. Sandusky	5	0	0	100
7. Zanesville	5	0	0	94
8. Cin. Moeller	5	0	0	48
9. Jackson	5	0	0	24
10. Massillon	4	1	0	30

Hang Out The College Football Washing To Dry

By HERSCHEL NISENSEN
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Hanging out the college football wash: Syracuse wasn't rubbing it in by passing for a two-point conversion after running up a 41-7 lead on Wisconsin with 2½ minutes left Saturday.

"We were asked by a stadium official not to kick the extra point because they were afraid the fans behind the end zone would start fighting for the football and someone might get hurt," reported Coach Ben Schwartzwalder.

A fight developed anyway. The players went at it for three minutes on the ensuing kickoff.

The 43-7 rout was Wisconsin's 18th consecutive setback and 23rd game without a victory. But Marshall of West Virginia is the current losing king with 24 straight, four short of the major college record shared by Kansas State (1945-48) and Virginia (1958-60.)

At least one coach is building character... and a winner, too. "In thought this team showed more character than any team I've ever coached," said Ray Graves of 3-0 Florida after the Gators' 21-6 win over Florida State.

The loser, Florida State's Bill Peterson, found that he hadn't gotten much smarter in the last 12 months.

"I called a poor series of downs when we got near the goal line early in last year's game," he said. "When we did it this year, my calls were even worse."

Defensive linemen have been known to blitz, stunt and what-have-you. But end Bob Harrell of Florida, who dropped Florida State's passer seven times, described his play this way:

"I just bowed my ears back and hauled buggy."

Big ten? Not to the Big Eight. The Big Eight shows a 6-0 record against the Big Ten this season and 10-0 over the last two years.

Big Eight? Not to Penn State. Penn State beat Kansas in the Orange Bowl, Kansas State last Saturday and Colorado the week before.

It's a 15-yard penalty if you throw the ball into the stands this year. But no penalty was called when Vanderbilt's defensive back Neal Smith, upset because North Carolina's Tony Blanchard beat him to the end zone with a touchdown pass, grabbed a pole supporting a loudspeaker at NC's Kenan Stadium, uprooted it and threw it over a fence.

The last time Columbia beat Princeton in New York (1952), Herbert Hoover was President. The last time Columbia beat Princeton anywhere (1945) Harry S. Truman was President. Nixon didn't help much Saturday. Defensive end Jim Nixon forced a Columbia fumble that set up the game's first score and Princeton won 21-7, it's 19th straight triumph in the series.

"It was set up beautifully by our offensive coaches and executed beautifully. We've worked on this for two or three weeks, waiting for the right situation. Of all the plays we've set up from time to time I can't think of one that worked better."

The speaker was Arkansas' Frank Broyles and the play lifted the Razorbacks from a 3-0 deficit and started them to a 24-6 victory over Texas Christian.

Third down and two on the Arkansas 27 and a guard pulled out as if to lead a sweep. But quarterback Bill Montgomery didn't hand off to Bill Burnett. Instead, he rolled out and lofted a pass to Chuck Dicus for a 73-yard TD.

The hepatitis epidemic at Holy Cross brings to mind a 27-year-old tragedy which could have been worse but for the Crusaders.

The Boston College team, hoping to wind up an unbeaten season, made reservations for a gala party on Nov. 28, 1942, at a night club called The Coconut Grove.

Holy Cross changed the plans with a 55-12 victory and B.C. canceled its reservations. Fire swept the club that night, killing 491 persons.

Cancels Rest Of Season

WORCESTER, Mass. (AP) — The Holy Cross football season came to an abrupt halt Monday when it was discovered that the entire 75-man squad had contracted infectious hepatitis.

For 22 seniors and a new head coach, Bill Whitton, the news was just a bit more difficult to swallow.

"I don't think anyone ever represented Holy Cross football better than you," Whitton told his squad in a final meeting that was not devoid of tears. "My opinion of you has always been high. I've never altered it."

The disease struck a majority of the team members over the weekend, and Sunday night 19 players were crammed into the school infirmary. The results of blood tests showed Monday the entire team had been infected, along with seven coaches, four managers, a trainer and the director of sports information.

Athletic Director Vincent G. Dougherty contacted the remaining eight opponents on Holy Cross' 10-game schedule and informed them it would be impossible to fulfill the school's commitment.

Dr. John Shea, vice president for student affairs said the college would isolate those affected to prevent the spread of the disease to the remainder of the 2,350-member student body.

Orioles Stomp Twins, 11-2; Win Flag

Martin's Future Still Up In Air

MINNEAPOLIS - ST. PAUL (AP) — Billy Martin closed out his first year as a big league manager, and he remained evasive today whether he would continue as field boss of the Minnesota Twins.

"I haven't been approached," said Martin, whose Twins lost 11-2 Monday to the Baltimore Orioles and gave the Orioles the American League pennant and a three-game sweep in the first divisional playoffs.

Army Sergeant Wins Pistol Championship

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Army Sgt. Major William B. Blankenship Jr., Richlands, Va., scored a near-perfect 590 to win the Rapid Fire Pistol event Monday in the U.S. International Shooting Championships.

Blankenship fired 295 Monday to equal his Sunday performance. A score of 600 was perfect.

greatest triumph of a 14-year managerial career that didn't hit the big time until last summer, paid hoarse-voiced tribute to his Baltimore Orioles Monday after their three-game blitz of Minnesota in the American League's first championship playoff series.

He could afford the luxury of looking back because the Orioles, who had bombed the Twins 11-2 following a pair of extra-inning cliff-hangers, had plenty of time to worry about their upcoming World Series showdown against New York 100-1-shot Mets.

"Before this year," said the cherub-faced Baltimore skipper, "you came in first after 162 games and you were in the series. This time you had to keep winning, winning, winning. And to win three in a row is amazing to me. It shows what a great ball club this is."

The Orioles, who backed Jim Palmer's lock-up pitching with a barrage of 18 hits—Paul Blair and Don Buford combining for half of them — will have four days to regroup before taking on the National League champion Mets Saturday at Baltimore.

For some of them, the wait will be too long. "Bring on Rod Gaspar... whoever the hell he is!" Frank Robinson shouted in the midst of champagne-quaffing teammates. "He said he wanted us."

Gaspar, a rookie outfielder, reportedly had expressed that sentiment after the Mets nailed the NL's East Division title on the way to a three-game playoff sweep over Atlanta.

"We'll start with him and go on from there," said Robinson. "Would you believe four games? Would you believe seven in a row?"

In a more serious vein, the Baltimore slugger conceded he believed the Mets were not to be taken lightly. "I never underestimate any ball club," he said. "We think we can beat them, but we're going to give them their due."

"They've got to be good to win their division and then take three straight from the Braves."

After the Orioles nipped Minnesota 4-3 on Blair's 12th inning squeeze bunt and 1-0 on Curt Motton's pinch single in the 11th, Powell admitted he'd breathe easier if "we went out and scored 10 runs in the first inning."

It took the East Division champs one more inning than that to unwind against Bob Miller, first of seven Minnesota pitchers. Then, doubles by Brooks Robinson and Elrod Hendricks, plus the second of Buford's three singles keyed a three-run burst.

The Twins never recovered. Mark Belanger's triple, a walk and a double by Blair produced two more runs in the fourth; Buford's double and singles by Blair and Frank Robinson got another home in the sixth and Blair cracked the game's lone homer—a two-run wallop—in the eighth.

The Orioles added three wrap-up runs in the ninth with the help of sore-armed Tony Oliva's second error in right field. "We just ran out of pitchers," said Twins pilot Billy Martin, barely masking his deep disappointment. "But I'm very proud of my kids. It could have been a different story if we'd won those two in Baltimore... or even the first one. We had them and we let them get away."

Favor Baltimore Over Mighty Mets

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Bookmakers established Baltimore as an 8-5 favorite Monday to whip the cinderella New York Mets in baseball's World Series beginning Saturday.

Baltimore was listed as a tentative 7-5 favorite to win the Series' opening game.

"We just think Baltimore is a better team," said one legal bookie. "But the Mets could prove surprising. They could be more 'up' than Baltimore," he said.

Odds on the opening game in Baltimore will be firm when managers name their starting pitchers.

Cincinnati Royals Defeat Baltimore

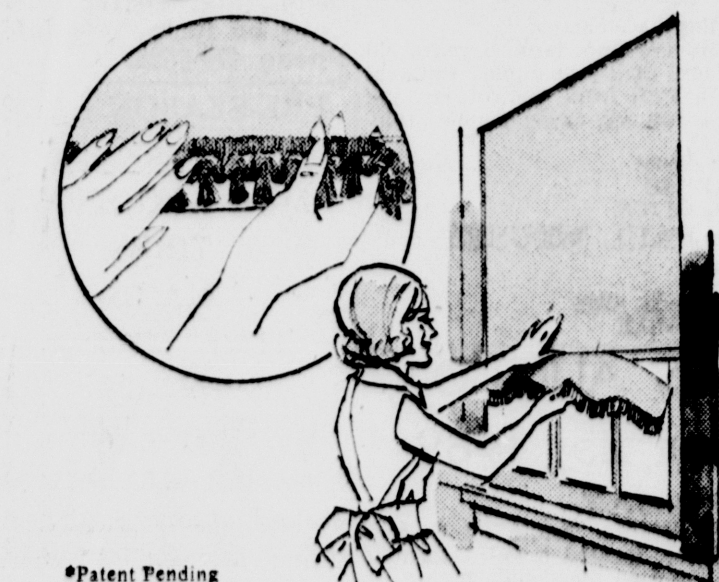

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Cincinnati Royals, with Oscar Robinson's six consecutive points in the final 2½ minutes of play, held off hard-charging Baltimore and captured a 121-112 National Basketball Association exhibition victory over the Bullets Monday night.

Robertson, who paced the Royals with 23 points, scored the crucial shots on a hook, two free throws and a jumper while Luther Rackley picked off two key rebounds to help turn the tide for Cincinnati.

Harmon Killebrew of the Minnesota Twins was the first batter in the major leagues to drive in 100 runs this season.

Barbara Shutt

Bernard Gilday Jr., attorney for Miss Shutt, said that he will have to talk with the family about the possibility of an appeal.

"That's a matter to be considered, something that has to be decided within the next couple of days," Gilday continued about an appeal.

As to the verdict, Gilday said, "This is something we certainly anticipated."

Miss Shutt will be sentenced at 11 a. m. by Judge William Morrissey. Life imprisonment is the mandatory punishment.

Miss Shutt was not shaken during the trial until she began weeping during closing arguments Monday morning.

In charging the jury as it received the case at 3:15 p. m., Morrissey told the members that there were three verdicts that could be returned—guilty as charged with execution the penalty, guilty with recommendation of mercy, or acquittal.

Linkletter To Step Up Anti-LSD Drive

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Art Linkletter says parents should learn the truth about drugs, alcohol and narcotics— "and get this information to their children in a memorable, sensitive, nonpanic way. Repetitive."

Today, in private, graveside services at Forest Lawn Memorial Park, the Linkletter family buried daughter Diane, 20, whose death plunge Saturday he blames on LSD—"a tiger in her bloodstream."

From the fifth grade up, the entertainer says, children "should be grounded as thoroughly in the dangers of putting chemicals into their system as they are in walking across a superhighway with their eyes shut."

The television star and businessman, already a lecturer to college and other groups on "the permissiveness of this society," said:

Plan Sohio-BP Merger 'Anyway'

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Despite a threatened law suit by the U.S. Government, Standard Oil Co. (Ohio) and British Petroleum Co. Ltd. of London say they will go ahead with merger plans.

A company spokesman said Monday that shareholders will meet as scheduled Thursday and the proposed merger will be discussed. He said a vote on the merger would be taken at a later date.

The federal government said Friday in Washington that it would sue to prevent the merger because it is considered illegal under guidelines laid down last year.

Soviets Study U.N. Paper On Skyjack

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The Soviet Union has not decided whether to oppose a proposed U.N. General Assembly resolution calling on all nations to outlaw aerial hijacking and punish the perpetrators.

A Soviet source said today that the delegation is carefully studying the resolution, which 10 nations submitted Monday for debate at the assembly's current session.

There had been speculation that the Soviet Union would oppose assembly debate on hijacking on grounds that the International Civil Aviation Organization in Montreal is working on the problem.

The Soviet source pointed out that this country's airline, Aeroflot, has not yet had any of its planes hijacked.

"On the other hand," he said, "our Cuban allies have been involved. There are many angles to this question that require careful scrutiny."

The informant said one question that still requires study is the matter of political asylum. "Cuban authorities have given asylum to hijackers who have sought haven, and the United States has just granted asylum to a defecting Cuban pilot," he said. "What do you do about such cases?"

Washington PTO To Host Open House

Washington Twp. PTO will hold Open House at the school 7:30 p.m. Thursday, Oct. 9.

John Henn, superintendent of Logan Elm District Schools will present information concerning the school bond issue.

"I intend now to step that up and give it more point. I think my daughter's death is going to be paid for many, many times by the kinds of things I can say and get done, using this as an example."

Diane, youngest of five Linkletter children, plunged from the kitchen window of a sixth-floor apartment where she had lived about eight months. By phone, from seclusion with his wife Lois and son Robert, 21, in their Lake Tahoe cabin, Linkletter said:

"Since this has happened to Diane, you cannot imagine the number of people who have called, wired, written me—important people, well known, who have daughters in sanitariums, sons in sanitariums, children who have killed themselves. They have hushed this up as a terrible family secret."

"All of a sudden they're coming out and telling me" . . . his voice choked and halted . . . "They'll join me."

In publicizing these evils? "Yes," he said. "Many are lawyers, bankers, so-called community pillars of decency . . . journalists." He knows none personally.

Linkletter, 57, said he doesn't have all the answers, but "I've been as good a parent as I could possibly be. I think. We've been a very close family. We've done everything you do according to the book—taken vacations together, gone on pack trips together, traveled extensively all over the world."

"We've been a good Christian family. My wife and I have tried to set a good example by being a good example."

"We have tried to keep our children up to date on what the dangerous things are, but perhaps we did not bear down as hard as we should have. "Diane, of all the children, was always the most daring. She was the most emotionally up and down. She was either on top of the mountain or in the valley of despair—over trivial things."

"She was the one who would dare to sneak out at night, and be willing to accept the punishment for it. If she came in later than she was supposed to come in, as she did frequently, she got a tongue lashing and took it in good spirits."

"She used to be spanked. When a child knows why he's being punished, not in anger or brutality, he should be punished. So she's had her good share of spankings."

"So when I heard, indirectly, that she might be going with a group that was experimenting around, I brought it out, as I do everything."
